

MANY ELDERS ALL MORMONS.

Gathering of Peculiar Folk in Los Angeles.

Conference of the Church of the "Latter Day Saints."

Lawyers, Book-keepers, Politicians and Mechanics Assume Clerical Garb.

One of the most unique of the religious bodies of Southern California convened in special session yesterday in a little frame church at No. 425 West Tenth street. These people are Mormons, or, as they call themselves, the "Church of the Latter Day Saints." Mormonism here is gaining a numerous following in Los Angeles, but it is a species of the faith with polygamy and the savagery of the parent church left out. A few there are in its ranks who have worshipped in the great temple by the salt inland sea, and who have personally served under the stern leadership of Brigham Young; but the most of them are young men and women, worshipping merely the tradition of Joseph Smith's original gospel.

Yesterday's service was a conference of the Southern California district of the church, which takes in all the territory from Santa Barbara south. Attendance at the sessions were 300 persons, most of them of this faith. There were also twenty-two elders present, of whom no less than seven are workers in the Los Angeles field.

There are elders, but no "preachers," "pastors," or "ministers." The elder is the deliverer of God's word to the church of Mormon by call. No one of the elders, who are every where, is a professional cleric, but a professional, by any means. As will be seen, most of them are young men; few of them have been preaching more than a year. Without doubt, scarcely any of them will ever stand in the pulpit, for the expiration of another twelve months. They believe themselves called for but a brief period to the ministerial field, and those who can stand to do so enter the work at once. According to it is really a serious consideration, for they accept no pay for their services. The period of service averages two years, and few of them continue in the work much longer than that.

In their ranks are men of all professions. In the picture is a young State Senator of Idaho, a number of attorneys, two bankers, several clerks and a few farmers. Some of these men have had the least rudiments of a theological training; but with much natural ability as God has given him he goes forth with the book of Mormon in one hand and the King James version of the Bible in the other, preaching, ministering to the suffering, helping the unemployed, comforting the downcast, joining heartily in the good times of the merry, and every where teaching the faith of Joseph Smith.

Since they accept no salaries, the contributions of the church members are, therefore, all the more useful in furthering the missionary work of the organization. In 1896 J. R. Smith and H. Thompson, missionaries from Utah, came to Los Angeles and founded the local work. After some months of strenuous toil they congregated twelve persons. Today their membership is just 212, and this figure will probably be much higher before the expiration of another month. H. C. Jacobson has charge at present, and the organization owns, free from indebtedness, a substantial, though plain, little church and a large, commodious Elders' Residence on the lot just adjoining. There are seven elders at work here, holding house-to-house services, giving street meetings in the poorer quarters of the town, distributing Mormon literature, and every way working hard and quietly for the spread of their peculiar faith. Evidently, to judge from their enthusiastic hopefulness and the earnestness with which they worship yesterday, they are doing with success.

Perhaps the most interesting figure of all, however, is that of the presiding elder, Joseph E. Robinson, who at the present time is presiding over the whole church in California, and also the branch in Western Oregon. Robinson is a young man, well educated, with a scientific mind, an intellect, and an entire lack of the strenuous type. Until he felt himself called to temporarily enter the ministerial field Robinson was a factor in Utah politics. A member of the Republican party, he served three consecutive terms in the Legislature, was a member of the constitutional convention, and was one of the most prominent state workers during the last Presidential campaign. His personality is winning, and as a speaker he is witty and logical, with that merit of modesty which is the order of the day.

throughout the day sessions of yesterday's conference, but in the evening Elder Robinson preached, taking for his subject the President's recent utterances on "Race-Suicide." The speaker dealt forcibly with lax divorce conditions, and concluded with a powerful plea for the sanctity of the home. It might be a hard matter, at first, for the uninitiated to pick out a Mormon sermon from that of any other denomination. The same tenets of love and forgiveness, the marvelous teaching of Christ, these things, as in the sermons of other ministers, form the principal subject matter.

However, the Mormon elder does not and glories in the fact that he and his sect are a "peculiar people," and if one listens long enough, this idea will surely be rung into the discourse. Once started on this, the minister will give a panegyric on Joseph Smith or Brigham Young, and perhaps quote at length from the book of Mormon.

This book of Mormon to the Latter-Day Saint sect is merely another volume of the Bible. Bound in the same binding, it lies on the preacher's desk, and has the same prestige and the same sanctity. One speaks of Joseph Smith in a Mormon house as of Moses in the same reverent way he would call the name of Elijah or John the Baptist.

"The Stick of Judah," is the name for the Bible, while Smith's imaginative work is called "The Stick of Joseph." Embodied faith in the worldwide acceptance of their own doctrine.

There are elders, but no "preachers," "pastors," or "ministers." The elder is the deliverer of God's word to the church of Mormon by call. No one of the elders, who are every where, is a professional cleric, but a professional, by any means. As will be seen, most of them are young men; few of them have been preaching more than a year. Without doubt, scarcely any of them will ever stand in the pulpit, for the expiration of another twelve months. AT THE CITY'S GATES

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

THE last section of what was once the city's pride, its cable street car system, is fast being torn out. All that remains of the old line is the track on East First street, from Chicago street to Evergreen cemetery. The large corps of workmen are removing this track, and laying a new one on a first-class concrete base. It is estimated that the work will be completed in about six weeks. The men are now working on the old Boyle Heights power-house. J. W. Whittey is the man to whom was awarded the contract last week for having concrete sidewalks on East First street, from Chicago street to Evergreen cemetery. J. W. Whittey is building a small cottage at No. 2217 East Twenty-fourth street. J. H. Diehl is building a $1000 cottage at No. 320 Euclid avenue. J. H. Hyman is building a $1000 cottage at No. 1222 East First street. J. W. Walker has sold his new cottage on North 20th street, near City street, to H. Arnold, who will re-build it. Mr. Walker has purchased a new house on the south side of Brooklyn street, east of San Antonio street. J. W. Whittey was celebrated last week by a party of friends at his home on East First street, between Chicago street and Evergreen cemetery. J. W. Whittey, who has been residing at No. 246 North St. Louis street, has gone to San Bernardino and will return next week. J. W. to Western avenue. Signers to the petition for this improvement are being secured all along the street, and the circulation of the petitions say its success is assured.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the ladies of Pico Heights will meet at the public reading-room to organize a Civic League. Mrs. Wiloughby Rodman, president of the City Civic League, and Mrs. W. J. Washburn, its secretary, will be present to explain the plans of the league. An invitation is extended to all the women of Pico Heights to be present.

The death of Felix Crouch occurred Friday, at No. 1110 Boston street. The funeral services were conducted by Revs. J. M. Shaeffe and W. C. Geyer at the residence, Sunday afternoon, and at the cemetery by Sunset Lodge of Masons. The deceased was a member of Boston Lodge at Jellico, Ky. He was several months ago to be seen with his sons, and about three weeks ago his wife arrived from Kentucky. Walter Goldsmith, generally known as "Goldie," has begun the erection of a story-and-a-half residence for his permanent home on the west side of El Molino street, between Pico and Sixteenth streets. Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith are now residing at No. 1235 West Hampshire street.

M. V. Huff, who recently sold his residence property on Laurel street, is building a two-story residence on the east side of Vermont avenue, between Pico and Sixteenth streets.

Fred L. Fish has sold his residence at No. 1110 Boston street to Mrs. M. A. Bishop of Chicago, and she now occupies the property.

Sunset Masonic Lodge is doing much work these days. The first degree was conferred on candidates on Monday night; the same degree was given three candidates Saturday night, and the work will be continued tonight. The lodge has fifteen applications on file.

Rev. George Willett of San Luis Obispo preached in the Congregational Church yesterday morning. Last night Rev. J. M. Shaeffe gave the Congregational church a sermon on "Saved to Serve."

Rev. Robert S. Fisher, pastor of the Union-Avenue Methodist Church, will lecture in the Pico Heights Congregational Church next Friday night for the Ladies Aid Society, on "The Red Cross."

The revival meetings at the Pico Heights Methodist Church closed Friday night. There were several conversions. Since the first of the year thirty-five new members have been received into this church. The church's society of the Ladies Aid Society, on "The Red Cross."

concert, illustrated with stereoscopic views, last night in the Central-Avenue Methodist Church. Yesterday afternoon the pastor of this church, Rev. D. F. McCarthy, spoke at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on "Victory."

Today the Orange Grove tract is to be placed on the market. It is a section of the W. E. Chambers acreage adjoining H. E. Huntington's recent purchase. It lies between South Park and McKinley avenues. A large sum of money has been expended on street improvements in the new tract. There are fifty-six lots and they will be sold with building restrictions.

T. T. Markham is building a $1500 cottage at No. 567 Central avenue. The Vernon Improvement Association held a meeting Friday night to mature plans for its reorganization on a more substantial basis. P. F. Dougherty was elected president, Isaac Smith, secretary, and Richard Duval, treasurer.

Vernon W. C. T. U. will hold its sessions hereafter in the Vernon Mission on Central avenue. The first meeting there will take place next Friday afternoon.

The Vernon Congregational Church received eleven new members on Easter Sunday.

UNIVERSITY.

NO OGDONVILLE.

The notorious roadhouse, and headquarters of the Army and Navy, is no more. Last week the removal of the building was completed, and now "Paddy" Flynn's celebrated resort is only a memory.

Five years this roadhouse has been known throughout this section as one of the sportiest places in the Southwest, and its removal is hailed with joy by property owners in the vicinity. The land, which comprises about five acres, is being put up into residence lots, and will be placed on the market.

The people on Hobart avenue are wondering if they ever will have a curb along the street. Each of the last big rains came when the cement was fresh and washed it all out.

College will open today, after the Easter vacation.

The baseball squad is training faithfully for the intercollegiate contest with Pomona, which will be played in this city May 12. The local boys are playing a much better game than at the first of the season, but are still weak in batting and base running.

The date of the twelfth annual intercollegiate oratorical contest has been set for Monday, May 18. A large delegation will go from University. Out of the eleven positions contests U. S. A. has won seven.

Three men are planning to build a new house on the corner of Vermont avenue and Jefferson street. E. A. Henderson is in charge of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Edmondson and daughter, Nina, of No. 1025 West Thirty-sixth street, are visiting friends in Monterey. Mrs. Edmondson is the proprietor of the drug store, on the corner of Vermont avenue and Jefferson street. E. A. Henderson is in charge of the building.

R. W. Smith of St. Louis is visiting his father, A. P. Smith and family, of No. 147 West Tenth street.

G. G. Force is building a $2000 residence on the corner of Hough avenue and West Thirty-sixth street.

Third Rail on Main Street---Huntington's Hurry.

ARMY ATTACKING THE CURVE AT NINTH AND MAIN.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning H. E. Huntington began to go after his third-rail privileges with hammers, tongs and pickaxes, and Main street resounded with the clangor of steel in the hands of the magnate's peons.

It is the purpose of the Pacific Electric, to have its broad-gauge, outside lines running through the center of the city by Flota time, and as the purpose of the Pacific Electric are usually the preliminaries of its accomplishment, the public takes it for granted that it will be so.

There will be no cessation of the work from now until the last spike is driven, and until the last "continuous joint" has been polished in the sandblast. Alternating gangs will rush the job, night and day, and it is expected that everything will be completed in about two weeks.

With their usual knack of doing the toughest things first, Huntington's men attacked simultaneously the curve at Ninth and Main, and the crossing and double curve of the Traction line at Third and Main streets. At Ninth street 100 of the Mexicans were set at work on "The Cross in History" and the personal supervision of Superintendent McClure, attacked the difficulty at the upper junction, with more than one thousand spectators at one time.

Last night's work was again running over the Main-street line, and with the exception of the paving, the crossing job was practically finished. Everything used was of the best, and consequently, notwithstanding the hurry, the work was lasting. Heavy sixty-pound rails were taken up, and sixty-two-pound rails were put down in their place.

During the most of the day all of the Main-street cars were driven to other lines, and although the traffic was heavy Broadway and Spring could handle it very well, since it was not a business day. The oddest sight, however, was that of the Traction cars on Spring street. The whole Traction line turned onto that thoroughfare at Fourth and went north to Second street, where they switched east and eventually found their various routes again. The Huntington line, of course, furnished the "juice" for the experiment. Many were the surprised and smiling crowds on Spring street, wondering what on earth was the matter. With the Third-street crossing in the rest of the work will not be difficult, and will probably be done quietly and expeditiously.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE

stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimity flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7 1/2 x 10 1/2 inches, in size. Illustrated with 75 photographic portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

I shall be pleased to receive portfolios of sample pages, photographs and descriptive notes, also full particulars regarding bindings, prices, etc.

Father Bear and Mother a Burro—What is It?

The animal shown above is believed to be half cinnamon bear and half California burro. It is the property of E. A. Hayward, corner of McKinley avenue and Ortega street. It was photographed yesterday by The Times photographer in the presence of an admiring crowd, for the freak animal has become a great curiosity at Vernon. Mr. Hayward purchased the "what-is-it?" from a Mexican, and the history thrown into the bargain is interesting. The Mexican said the freak was born to his Jenny burro during a long journey far away from any other human beings or domestic animals. He declared she had not kept company with any jackass in her life, and had not been within five miles of another animal of the same species for months when she came in foal. The Mexican declared his firm belief that a bear was the father of the queer animal.

The appearance of the freak certainly bears out the unusual theory. The animal is smaller than a burro and larger than a bear. It is covered with long, shaggy brown fur. Looking from the rear at the hind quarters, it looks very much like a cinnamon bear. The hind limbs are shaped like those of a bear, and the tail is exactly like a bear's. The head is that of a burro, but the bones of the front shoulders are very similar to those of a dog. The hoofs are like those of a burro, only softer and much larger. Hayward believes he has a prize.

T. J. (Jeff) Packard, city Marshal, was seriously wounded by rifle balls and buckshot in the attack. His recovery is considered doubtful. Al Hulse, an ex-convict who aided McKinney in resisting arrest, was jailed for killing Tibbett and threatened with lynching by the indignant citizens. Jennie Fox, female consort of Hulse, and Wye She, high Chinese Mason, were arrested on charges of harboring the outlaw. The bloody affray closed one of the most remarkable chapters in the criminal annals of the West. The dead outlaw was charged with at least five murders.

doorway that separated the back yard from the alley.

As they burst into the yard McKinney was standing just within the doorway. Bert Tibbett lay on the ground and Packard was crouching over him, a passage turned into the toilet, returning the fire. Etter fired with a pistol and Packard was hit in the head and the doorway, but missed. Bert Tibbett lay just behind, fired a charge of buckshot into the outlaw's head, and leaping over the stone wall, the second barrel into the quivering form.

McKinney fell like an ox and was dead before he had time to get on his feet. His blood poured out the second floor in the narrow hallway; his gurgled from his side. The desperado had died as he lived.

EXCITEMENT INTENSE.

Immediately after this battle the most intense excitement prevailed in the city. This was accentuated when Michael Packard was brought in in a buggy along Nineteenth street on his way to his home, bleeding from his head and still further, a few minutes later when a bus arrived at Baer's drug store, and the form of Bert Tibbett. The wounded man was taken into the store and physicians summoned, but it took but a glance to show that the fellow was dead.

A rifle ball had entered his right side, penetrating the abdominal cavity. The wound was perfectly conscious directing them to where he was wounded, while suffering the most intense agony.

At nine o'clock a man was brought in the Southern Hotel, and there, surrounded by his family, he died shortly before midnight.

City Marshal Packard was driven to his home on Seventeenth street and physicians were quickly summoned in from the hospital.

tensely, but his mind ran constantly on the injury Tibbett had received.

"I'm not worrying about myself," said the Marshal; "but, my God, they said they know they got Bill." And the Marshal directed that some one hurry to her and assure her he was not hurt. Tibbett, however, was faintened from the intensity of his pain.

An examination showed that his right arm is badly shattered by a side-saddle buckshot. He has a deep ugly wound on the left side of the neck, where a rifle ball plowed its way. His head is bleeding freely and generous. The physicians do not think that it will be necessary to amputate the arm.

All his suffering Packard contemplated again. "I'm glad McKinney is dead, but I know he got Bill!"

SCENE OF CONFLICT.

The house in which the tragedy of this morning occurred has two entrances, one through the front door on L street and the other through a side door from the alley between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. A back door leads from the house out into the cramped yard in the rear and was the point of exit for the wounded. The front of the building is occupied by a large hall and three small rooms on either side of the sawgey. Evidently McKinney had been occupied the room to the right of the hall, and there was bread and butter and other provisions in the room.

It was on the streets that Tibbett and Packard met. Tibbett passed through and entering the rear door Packard went through to the rear door before discovering the whereabouts of the outlaw.

It is said that when McKinney there was some conversation between Packard and McKinney, but his cannon was derelict. A negro is reported to have told that the two officers were in the battle, and that the two officers called upon the outlaw to surrender.

Later when the officers entered the building they found a veritable arsenal of arms and ammunition, showing that McKinney was well prepared for a battle. They found the outlaw's body lying over the railing at the top of the stairs leading to the optimum den in the basement of the building.

SURRENDER OF HULSE.

A close guard was placed around the building on the streets the night of the alley running east and west from street is the gate by which entrance was had to the back yard where Tibbett met his death. On the porch of a frame building on the alley an officer was posted. The entrance to the rear yard resting on the fence covering the rear fire yard and the entrance to the building. In front was another officer on watch every minute; others were also posted about the building.

About noon the fire department was called out, and Sheriff Kelly prepared to flood the building in the hope of driving the outlaw out. He was suddenly appeared on the street, springing as it were from the ground, and surrendered himself to the Sheriff. He had a revolver loaded with "C" and "K" knife.

Large crowds gathered around the jail on the streets the matter was eagerly discussed. Threats were heard but up to this hour there has been no attempt at violence. There is a strong guard on the building and no one is allowed to approach. There was some talk of calling out the company of the National Guard.

HOUSE SET AFIRE.

Ed McKinney was in the city this morning, and was seen by officers about 7 o'clock, whom he told that he was going to Porterville on the 8 o'clock train.

probably from buckshot. In the lining of his coat three battered bullet shot were found, and the mark of the shot passing through the outer garment could be readily traced.

DRUG ADDICTION OUTLAW.

Hulse was seen this evening at the jail. He was very nervous and denied everything, but when cornered finally acknowledged that he had told several parties that McKinney was in the jail, and that he had been on the outlawing. He strenuously maintained that he knew absolutely nothing about the outlaw or his doings, and that he had been in the house while the fight was going on.

The woman who was arrested acknowledged that she had gone to the house to smoke opium, but denied knowing anything of the outlaw's presence or having assisted in harboring him.

John Caldwell, who accompanied Jake McKinney in his recent trip to the mountains, was arrested, although it was not known whether he was directly concerned in the shooting, but is detained in the hospital, that some information may be extracted from him. He was, however, never knowing that the fugitive was in the city.

Ed McKinney returned to this city on the 10 o'clock train this evening. It was thought at first that he might be implicated in the fight, but it has been shown that he was only a bystander, a child over his brother's remains at the morgue, and fears the effect upon his aged mother, who lives near by.

At 11 o'clock tonight groups of people discussing today's tragedy are on every street corner in the city. The talk is all of the same tenor, that the jail all afternoon dispersed about 10 o'clock tonight, but there are fifteen doubts on guard their records.

Charles T. Packard's bedside give the information that he most likely will be accused. He was seen with McKinney in his left arm, the second finger on his left hand was amputated, and the buckshot was removed from his throat.

HIS MURDEROUS CAREER.

McKinney's career was filled with brutal murders and thrilling escapes. He served a term in the State prison, was acquitted of one killing and was believed to have taken at least six human lives.

His latest and most brutal deed of McKinney's career was committed near Hermosillo, State of Sonora, Mex. It was the officers that called the attention of the citizens to his whereabouts and started the chase that ended in his death. Charles Blakey, known in the city as "Big Boy," was the brother of Roy Winchester, a young miner, were shot to death with a rifle from behind. The men were walking up a trail, and McKinney was the last man seen. Kinney lay in wait and dropped them from behind with his Winchester.

McKinney was then sent to the penitentiary from Tulsa, where he was accused to murder, and after his release went to Randsburg, where he figured in the killing of a man, and was again escaped trial. He went to Bakerfield soon afterward, where, in the latter part of 1906, he shot and killed Tommie Williams, a miner, in a saloon place in what is known as Jay alley, as the result of a dispute over a game of pool.

McKinney was acquitted of the fight, and his career was over.

Last July he committed his most sensational crime in Fortville, where he killed a man in a drunken row. He made a sensational escape from jail, and for months wandered practically unnoticed through the country. His escape was made a political issue against the officers at Fortville. A for-

Car Men—Results of Mix-

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Disquietude reigns in the councils of the labor agitators who make their living out of the credulity of the workmen of San Francisco.

Livernash, the freak Congressman, who floated into prominence on the tide of union labor domination of party politics at the expense of the Democratic candidate for Governor, is exercising all the ingenuity of his warped brain to keep in bounds the men who are responsible for him. A few of those at the head of the labor movement realize the fact that they are on the brink of disaster that may be precipitated at any moment by the hasty action of the turbulent members of the organization, which has grown arrogant through fancied power. The immediate and impending danger seen by these agitators lies in the trouble that has arisen between the United Railroads and its employees, the Carmen's Union.

When this union sprang into existence about a year ago, it achieved an easy victory because of the fact that the people believed the employers of the street car ill-treated by General Manager Vining. It was a victory of peace by peaceful means, and it would have been well for the street car employees to have been satisfied with the results. But with victory came arrogance toward the employer and insolence toward the public. The carmen were so puffed with their importance that they forgot even the commonest rules of decency and courtesy toward the patrons of the road, and were but a short time ago complaining of insolence and ill-treatment were piling into the mail box of the company.

Ladies received insults, and when a man presumed to interfere he was met with such vile abuse that he was glad to get away without the scandal of a brawl.

There could be but one result, and that came quickly. What little sympathy was given to the striking carmen last year has been reversed, and now the company has it all. It is this sentiment that has alarmed the labor leaders, and which has caused them to hurry to prevent a strike that can mean but one thing for the labor movement in San Francisco—certain doom and disgrace. The Carmen's Council, that great body which arrogates to itself the rule of industrial life of this city—is now bending every effort to prevent a strike, because it foresees in that strike the beginning of the end—the doom of labor unionism in San Francisco.

From a tie-up of the street cars here, has been threatened. In the beginning of the sion, but the union would accept that which was in conformity with its demands. This utopian solution met with a sarcastic reply from the company and then came the ultimatum for arbitration. Arbitration was agreed to reserve. The union apparently forgot its guns and gave up the assumption of power. But the men are at the head of the affairs in San Francisco are not men who are content with dealing withators and demagogues; to this apparent surrender was a rise and unmistakable recapitulation of the matter. The statement of the explicit statement of these questions was not to be entered the inalienable right of the union to control its own affairs will, without reference to the company. This was the one thing the union did not want to permit, and came another ultimatum to the union. The question of his charges was to be left for future argument to be decided on these matters at issue were to be conceded by the company, and this point is that trouble will only come at all.

The organ of the Labor Council's latest issue, took exception to the content of the editorial which was called on the union to refuse to the proposition giving the control of the company to the hiring and discharging as it was a nutshell the unions wanted absolute control of the road and the department even the control of its accounts and payrolls depends to stockholders.

The organ of the Labor Council in this matter is merely in expressed policy in regard to the nation of the State of California. In its recent issue scattered broadcast over this circular, which bears the name of the union label and which by the published organ of the Labor Council, denounces the now being made by the State and railroads of the State to the detriment of the union. It denounces that these efforts can result in detriment to unionism. Coast, and it calls on the unions to use every effort to the efforts to build up the State. The attempt is made to disguise the increased population and the power to those who have been working to reduce the community to the barbarism of the Dark Ages, and that they are not so absolute as that of the days of feudal days.

The taste of power that the teamster's strike has shown when the dupes of Casper and Seth were led to believe that victory had been achieved, and these leaders of the strike rule that there seems no limit to ambition. With the election of the demagogic musician, in the city, and his record in the position of such men as Casper and Seth, as leader of the union, aided and abetted the only one remarked that the record of the history, there came to the realizing sense of the danger of the ruling municipality. The men whose rule meant ruin. The Schmitz has shown himself to be as putty in the hands of the men, and now he has to recover the reins of government from the hands of men who have led the above tyrannical rule of the men of the people. The consolidation of the factions of the publican party was the first step toward the redemption of the present low condition of consolidation, grows the Loosers Beat Irish Helena Lost Two-Fighter Woods's Offer.

LOOLOS WIN FINAL GAME OF SERIES. LOCAL NATIONALS BEAT HELENA IN TWO CONTESTS.

Whelan Was Hit Hard in Two Innings in Pacific Coast League Game—Blunders of Helena Team Were Costly. Players Changed Around Frequently.

Los Angeles, 6; San Francisco, 1. De Whale was harpooned in a sensational, miraculous manner when he first came up to bat yesterday, and before he went down again the Loosers had bitten enough off him to last them till they reached shore. This was the whole thing.

Over 6200 people crowded their way into Chavez Park to see the closing struggle between the Loosers and the Irish, and a fine thing they had of it, too. The contest was exciting, and the din that went up to the sky during the show must have been heard for many blocks. Six thousand people can throw out a big lot of noise, and they were not bashful about it, either. The batting was hard, and the errors plentiful as the flowers on the grass. The Loosers, and just about as loud. Thousands of fans would just as soon howl at an error as a home run, and so between the two chances the crowd was kept in a ferment all afternoon.

Whelan was the star of the day in the fielding line, and the only reason they did not make better records was because they did not have the chance. Toman had three put outs and eight assists, and figured in two fast double plays, while Wheeler had five outs and three assists, neither making anything like an error. For the visitors, De Whale was the only one who approached these figures with an out and six assists.

Newton was in the pen for the locals, and while he was hit nine times, these things were so scattered that they were useless for any purpose. The Irish, on the other hand, like a lot of Penlins in the last inning, Tom Toman headed them off from more than two runs, by an out and two assists that would have stopped anything. Thus a batting rally that promised so much at first, fizzled out miserably.

De Whale was doing the pitching for the Loosers, and he was up to a swell game, but was beaten in the first three innings through four hard hits, a sacrifice and a costly error by Irwin. In the first inning, Irwin was hit with the ball, advanced on Wheeler's hit, and was forced at third on Smith's hit, and was forced at third on Smith's hit, and was forced at third on Smith's hit.

The visitors got around the first time in the seventh on a hit by Arvelles, Newton's bat threw to first and Rose's ruff of Shay's fly to center, which he dropped after a long run. Then in the eighth, Newton passed Irwin and then was hit safely by Leahy, Pabst and Arvelles in succession, all this netting two runs.

GAMES THIS WEEK.

MORLEY'S FLAG-RAISING.

The Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast League will be here tomorrow to open a six-game series with Manager Morley's Loosers.

In honor of the event, Manager Morley will have special flag-raising ceremonies before the game. A large number of the lady fans last week presented the Loosers with a large American flag and a long satin pennant in green and white, and these emblems will be unfurled at Tuesday's game. This would have been done yesterday, but the flag pole was not in position.

The National Northwest League will open its second week at Frager Park tomorrow in a series of games with the Butte team. There are some familiar faces on the Butte roster, and the team is said to be a strong one.

PACIFIC NATIONALS.

LOCALS WON TWO GAMES.

Los Angeles, 6; Helena, 0. First game. Los Angeles, 12; Helena, 4. Second game.

Two games for the price of one was the double bill of the Nationals at Frager Park yesterday, and the 1500 have 2000 fans the same on both games.

The Nationals were well satisfied with the day's sport. As the local Nationals won both games with ease. Too much pitching was the cause of this double victory, for Helena could do nothing with the local pitcher in the first game and could not stop their own slaughter in the second. This was full of hits and errors and Helena was beaten into the ground.

The first game was called at 1:30 o'clock and by five time over 1000 spectators were in the seats, and 900 or more straggled in during the progress of the game. The ground was still damp and slow from the recent rainstorm, and this had much to do with the many errors of the afternoon. Consequently Helena could not get near the plate and never had a chance to prevent a shut-out.

On the other hand, in the locals' first inning after two were gone, Sluggers Gannon rapped the ball to deep left field for a home run. In the second inning, Hardy scored on two errors in a fielder's choice and two singles. Nothing more resulted until the eighth, when Hall's single, Reilly's double, and singles by Messerly and Hardy sent in two more runs.

The second game was a bad one in many ways, and the locals had the easiest kind of picnic, for the Helena team was hit hard in the first inning. The Helena team was hit hard in the first inning. The Helena team was hit hard in the first inning.

RESULTS OF GAMES.

SAN ANTONIO, April 19.—Portland made a rushing finish of the series, capturing both games from Oakland today. The morning game was poor, but the afternoon contest, despite the unevenness of the score, was made interesting by the brilliant work of the Oregonians. Score, morning game:

Portland, 9; hits, 9; errors, 5.

Oakland, 6; hits, 5; errors, 4.

CINCINNATI, April 19.—Pittsburgh made a four straight today. The game was interesting one through out and had either of Emslie's two questionable decisions been decided otherwise, the score would have been different. Score: Cincinnati, 4; hits, 9; errors, 4.

Pittsburgh, 6; hits, 7; errors, 1.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—In the final game of the series between St. Louis and Chicago, the game was called at the end of the first inning on account of rain with the score, 0 in favor of St. Louis. The attendance was 10,000.

Score: St. Louis, 3; hits, 9; errors, 0.

Chicago, 0; hits, 1; errors, 1.

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—Fully 6000

spectators gathered at Oak Park today and witnessed one of the most exciting contests of the season. It was a grand pitcher's battle between Jay Hughes and Tom Toman. If anything

Thomas had the better of it. Hughes was accorded poor support in the first inning, and two runs were scored that never should have tallied, and in consequence he was hit for a sacrifice.

Score: Sacramento, 3; hits, 3; errors, 1.

SHAMROCK TO HAVE TRIAL PINS IN FOUR WEEKS.

Sir Thomas Lipton Has Utmost Confidence in His New Boat—Body of Lost Sailor Not Recovered—Provision Is Made for Man's Family.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

WYOMOUTH (England), April 19.—

The two Shamrocks left here today at noon for Southampton. The challenger was towed by the Erin. Sir Thomas

Lipton was interviewed this morning before the departure of the yachts.

Describing the accident of last week he said:

"When the challenger lost her mast

there was certainly six feet of water over her lee deck. My first impression when the mast went was that the boat was sinking. Later, when I was able to scramble up on deck, I found everything gone and the boats out doing nothing. I saw the seaman Collier in the water."

Sir Thomas was bewildered at the suddenness of the accident and said that the scene that immediately followed seemed to him like the confused remembrance of a dream.

Questioned as to his future course, he said he meant to work day and night to get the yacht fitted in time for further trials before sailing for

New York. His desire was to avoid a postponement of the races.

Great Dam to Boom Great Salt River Valley.

Work Will Soon Begin. General Rejoicing.

PHOENIX, April 18.—"It is the most important work of the new year," it is the joyful cry of the Salt River Valley. The great dam to be built on the Salt River Valley by the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association, with a capital stock of $1,750,000, divided into 250,000 shares, at the rate of $7 each. This was assumed to be at the rate of a share for every acre to be irrigated by the water stored in the dam. All subscribers must pledge their land as security for the repayment, within ten years, to the government of the cost of the dam, thereafter to receive full benefit of the water stored in the dam, and to be repaid by the government.

ing a fall of about two hundred and fifty feet at the dam site and 4000 available horsepower. Engineers are now working on the line of this canal, which will be the first work to be completed. The power developed is to be transmitted electrically to the cement works at the Salt River Valley, to further expand the irrigated area by means of pumping from wells.

Specifications and Problems. The original figures were for a dam that should have 150 feet of available storage, with capacity of 400,000 acre feet, to be constructed at a cost of $1,500,000, or $22.7 per acre foot. It has been thought best to change these dimensions, to provide storage for any possible flood of water that may come. The latest plans are for a dam 230 feet in height above the stream level. The cost will be raised proportionately, but the impounding area vastly increased and the cost per acre foot materially lowered. It was demonstrated that the question must depend thereon and need not vex for several hundred years, at least.

Official Announcement. Around Phoenix the main question is that of the best method whereby the valley might avail itself of the favorable terms of the irrigation act. After months of consultation and argument, brought to a head in February, was organized the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association, with a capital stock of $1,750,000, divided into 250,000 shares, at the rate of $7 each. This was assumed to be at the rate of a share for every acre to be irrigated by the water stored in the dam. Raymond Park Tract At Auction Tomorrow

Buy a lot tomorrow at auction prices and sell it next day at a profit. Every dollar invested in substantial high grade property like this at under-the-market prices is as safe as Government bonds and a great deal more profitable.

This cottage will be reserved for the exclusive use of ladies during tomorrow's sale.

Raymond Park

Is located just south of Raymond Hotel and north of Huntington Hill, South Pasadena. The streets are graded and gravelled, with cement sidewalks and cement curbing, gas, electric light, telephone, modern city conveniences. Raymond Park is only 27 minutes from the business center of Los Angeles via Pasadena Short Line—about the same or less than it takes to reach the best residence sections in the city proper. Cars leave First and Los Angeles streets every 15 minutes. Free transportation for those who desire to visit the tract before or during sale can be had at our office, 352 Wilcox Building, Los Angeles.

Special Notice to Intending Investors and Others

So many tracts have recently been placed on the market, with a view of selling cheap lots, that we want to distinctly emphasize the point that RAYMOND PARK does not belong to that class of property. The location of Raymond Park is ideal. Thousands of dollars have been expended in high class street improvements, in bringing water, electricity, gas and other improvements to the tract, so that nothing of the thousands invested in beautiful home places.

Building Restrictions

This property will be sold subject to the following building restrictions, which are intended to safeguard purchasers and assure the future of Raymond Park as a model, high class residence section. No house costing less than $1000 and from that up to $2500 (according to location) may be erected. All houses must be built at from 35 to 50 feet from the street lines, according to local laws. Business of every kind or description is prohibited from the property. The manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors is especially prohibited. This shall be construed as a full notice to all purchasers, whether or not so represented by any agent or whether or not stipulated in the contract of purchase. These restriction clauses are inserted in every deed.

A Final Word

In advertising Raymond Park we have tried to be plain and honest in every statement—this is the last advertisement going into details which will appear before the sale. If there is anything we have not made clear, call at our office, 352 Wilcox Building, Los Angeles or at our office on the property. We do not care to unduly urge anyone to buy—if you do not purchase someone else will—our salesmen are instructed to be careful in every statement made and to let every investigator decide for him or herself—go out to the grounds Tuesday morning and get fully acquainted with every lot before the bidding begins. S. W. FERGUSON CO.

Terms of Sale

The following terms of sale will be strictly adhered to in disposing of this property. Ten per cent cash upon the fall of the hammer. One-third cash within ten days from date of sale, when we will furnish an unimpaired certificate of title by the Title Insurance and Trust Co. Balance payable in one and two years. Interest on deferred payments only 5 per cent. All street improvements, such as grading, graveling, curbing and sidewalks on Mount, Palermo and Brent avenues are in and paid for.

RAYMOND PARK, SOUTH PASADENA, has first-class churches and schools.

The contract has already been let for a $20,000 addition to the present splendid school building. The elevation is over 600 feet, little or no frost, few fogs, superb mountain views, magnificent drives and every possible condition to make life worth living. Once more we ask the question—if you could buy a lot or piece of acreage at auction one day and sell it the next day for a profit, would you do it?
